

Announcing

New HUMANISTIC PSYCHOLOGY Café in Central London

AHPb is holding a series of low cost humanistic café-style events in London in 2019, culminating in a conference in the late autumn. Each event will include an informal talk and small group discussions focusing on speaking from the heart and using the insights of Humanistic Psychology to relate to what's happening in the world today. There will be well-known speakers and ample networking opportunities.

The café-style events will be held bi-monthly on Wednesday evenings in London at Colet House, 6.30 for a 7.15pm. start, finishing at 9.15pm. There will be opportunities to network from 6.30 until 7.15pm and from 9.15 until 9.45pm. Teas and coffee will be available from 6.30pm, and you can bring simple food to share. The cost will be £20, with £15 concession for students, concessions and AHPb members. Details of the conference, planned for November, will be available later.

Wednesday 20th March 2019:

Greed, Hate and Mega Delusion: Challenging disconnection in the modern age with Caroline Brazier.

An exploration of the processes and impulses which drive individuals and society as we live with the tension between denial and acknowledgement that there is No Planet B.

Caroline Brazier is a practising psychotherapist, Buddhist, trainer and author of seven books on Buddhism, Psychotherapy and Ecotherapy.

Booking via Eventbrite.

Wednesday 15th May 2019:

Extinction Rebellion: The Changing of the Guards with Alison Green.

In a recent address to world leaders at Davos, Greta Thunberg said, "I don't want you to be hopeful, I want you to panic." Should we in Extinction Rebellion be more concerned with fear of success than fear of failure?

Alison Green PhD is a cognitive psychologist who until recently was Pro Vice-Chancellor at Arden University. She is now a full-time activist, working with Extinction Rebellion and Scientists Warning.

Booking via Eventbrite.

Wednesday 17th July 2019: Against Dialogue with Manu Bazzano

At the time of identity politics and polarization, we are told that we need more dialogue. I will present the case against dialogue and in favour of genuine encounter as poetic accident, creative conflict and deeper learning from difference and otherness.

Manu Bazzano is a psychotherapist, facilitator, author of several books including Nietzsche and Psychotherapy \(Routledge, 2019\). Booking via Eventbrite.

Wednesday 18th September 2019:

Creative Maladjustment, Progressive Politics, and Humanistic Psychology with Elliot Benjamin

Elliot will use Martin Luther King's concept of "creative maladjustment" to explore his experiences merging humanistic psychology and progressive politics in his work with the Resisting Trump movement in the USA. Participants will have the opportunity to share and discuss their own experiences in this area.

Elliot Benjamin PhD, from Maine, USA, is a Psychology mentor/ PhD committee chair at Capella University. He is the author of four books and over 180 articles in humanistic and transpersonal psychology, philosophy/spirituality and awareness of cult dangers, parapsychology, the creative artist and mental disturbance, progressive politics, and mathematics. Booking via Eventbrite.

Wednesday 16th October 2019:

What's wrong with our education system? with Richard House

Richard will explore how a humanistic vision, and associated values and practices, are desperately needed to heal our broken education system.

Richard House PhD, C.Psychol. is a former counsellor/ therapist, Steiner teacher, university lecturer in education, and former co-editor of Self & Society journal. Booking via Eventbrite.

Details of the Venue: Colet House is the home of The Study Society. The address is: 151 Talgarth Road, Hammersmith, London W14 9DA. The nearest tube station is Barons Court on the District and Piccadilly lines. See the Google map.

For booking links and further information, see the website: www.ahpb.org